

First name:	Surname:	What motivated you to put yourself forward for election to the Branch committee?	What qualities, skills and experience do you think you'll bring to the Branch committee?
Mark	Augustine	First and foremost I would like to share my knowledge gained through my experience in complex infrastructure projects (including HS2) to ensure the project costs are within the budget and timeline. Secondly, I would like to be a part of the community development in York. Thirdly I am an ardent learner and would like to learn the emerging practices in several other industries and the complexities faced by project managers in managing such complex projects. Lastly, I would like to organize conferences & networking events, write blogs (as blogging is one of my hobbies) and meet people!	I am a curious individual and this quality has paved the way for solving several challenging problems in the infrastructure domain. Similarly, I am a fast-paced perfectionist with greater attention to detail therefore I would take a careful approach and at the same time be bound to stringent timelines. Further, my effective critical thinking would facilitate solving several pain points arising for project managers. Subsequently, I have two masters in the field of Structural Engineering and Business Administration (both with distinctions) and my engineering experience range predominantly in high-value projects with project values ranging from £5 million to £ 300 million (and above). In addition to it, I am currently working on the most iconic and prestigious infrastructure project in the UK which is HS2. Therefore a combination of all my skills, qualities and experience would certainly add value to the committee, particularly in the high-value infrastructure projects.
Ryan	Christey	I am already a member of the committee and am only getting started with the team. I am really looking forward to the events that we are planning next year and would very much like to remain part of the team.	I bring a huge amount of energy and enthusiasm to the committee. I have over 27 years of multi-sector engineering and PM experience across the infrastructure space. I also support the corporate team at AECOM Project and Programme Service to integrate the APM competency framework into our national team of project managers.
Michael	Diskin	I would like to support the development of the project profession at a regional level	I am an experienced project professional having worked in a public sector project environment for 20 years. I have previous experience of operating in the capacity of branch secretary.

Martin	Gillespie	Passionate about the profession. Have previously been a volunteer and now returning to the profession after a break.	Previous branch experience of 18 years with South East Branch. A large network of contacts and keen to work with more recent volunteers.
David	Golding	I've been involved in the YNL Branch now for over 2 years. And would like to continue this on in the future, I feel I could have been more involved over the past year due working commitments.	And continued through the past decade to Volunteer for the APM and would like to continue this for a further year. I've gained a Bsc in PM and Msc i Strategic PM, and continue to develop my own experience and training.
Stephen	Granville	As an active APM Yorkshire and North Lincolnshire Branch Committee member, I want to continue to serve and to support the work of APM in our branch. I am passionate about making a positive difference and I strongly believe that volunteering will enable me to contribute to our prestigious Association APM, providing the platform to work with others to achieve APM goals and gain a variety of new skills.	I am an enthusiastic, pro-active and friendly individual; highly motivated and passionate about learning. I am an experienced team leader driven by the values of integrity, consistency, dedication and service. I am available to put to use my skills for the benefit of our branch and APM at large.
Dicl	Kortantamer	I moved to Leeds a month ago. I attended the event at the Thackray Museum of Medicine yesterday, and was really inspired the work of the branch as well as the friendliness of everyone. I would like to contribute to the excellent work the branch is doing.	I led IT projects in the financial services industry for many years before moving to academia, where my research focused on leadership in projects. I would be bringing this diverse experience to the branch as well as the opportunities to increase engagements with the University of Leeds (e.g., perhaps host an event?), and my motivation to help build a community.

Carl	Lewis	Following the 'Meet the Committee' webinar held on 19 May, I feel that I could contribute to the work of the Yorkshire and North Lincolnshire APM Branch Committee, particularly in terms of facilitating engagement with schools and further education establishments in the region. I am passionate about project management, having actively engaged and involved learners within the various projects I have delivered throughout my career. This has involved hosting project placements and apprenticeships in addition to organising one-off site-based and classroom engagement activities for learners from a variety of different academic backgrounds. Having worked at Hull City Council for 9 years on a range of large-scale transformation and regeneration projects, I've established an extensive network of contacts within local educational establishments and would relish the opportunity to assist the Committee to meet the APM's objectives of raising awareness and inspiring young people to consider pursuing careers as project management professionals.	I am a highly motivated and well organised individual who works well as part of a team. I am accustomed to working in a dynamic environment where I constantly adapt ways of working to meet the requirements of project stakeholders and an evolving policy landscape. Since 2013, I have worked on public sector projects at a local level in Hull and across the wider sub-region in partnership with the other north and south bank Humber local authorities. Having recently moved to Defra, I am continuing to build on my local network of contacts through national public sector projects within and beyond the Yorkshire region. I would very much welcome the opportunity to bring my enthusiasm, drive and experience to contribute to the work which the Branch committee undertakes to engage and promote the project profession, particularly in the Humber area covering Hull and East Riding and North/ North East Lincolnshire.
David	Pearce	I have much enjoyed working as an APM volunteer previously and given I think it important to make a contribution to our profession wish to continue to support the YNL Branch going forward.	Experienced PM both in industry and later teaching same in HE. Further an experienced APM volunteer. Also good connections within both the wider project profession and in HE that enable the Branch to expand its influence and also to gather support when required.
Joanne	Sullivan	I looking to increase my knowledge of how project management develops at a grass roots and local level, supporting the economy regionally. This is especially important to me as the projects I work on support the Government priorities of Levelling Up and Places for Growth. I also want to help support apprentices and graduates to see project management as a viable and exciting career that will take them far.	I have had a varied career, starting in museums and heritage, moving into the private sector for a large multi-disciplinary firm before gaining employment in the civil service delivering large capital projects. My critical success factor has been that I am an excellent communicator and I have a knack of understanding what stakeholders and influencers want and how to deliver that.

Hannah	Taylor-Hemingway	I have served on the Committee for the last 2 years and I would like to continue to support the branch in coming out of the pandemic and moving forward with new ideas and initiatives for member engagement	I am enthusiastic and willing to support the branch and the wider work that the APM does.
